Ethered Gibbs spent Thanksgiving with friends in Berea.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Cain of near Salyersville were here Saturday.

Arnel Brown of Williams was in town Saturday looking after business affairs.

Whisor Lucy and Dot Patrick, of Salyersville, were on our streets Sunday.

Paul Reed of Salyersville was a pleasant caller in West Liberty last Saturday.

Inhered Gibbs of Chicago is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Gibbs, on Long branch.

Jesse Nickell, who is in the CCC camp at London, is visiting his parents at Florence this week.

Clay Elam of Cincinnati, O., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Elam, at White Oak, over the week end.

Miss Opal Dawson, who is attending the North school in Ashland, spent Thanksgiving with home folks here.

Miss Margaret Wells has been employed by the W.P.A. to oversee the women's training work centers in this county.

Mrs. Erlich Griffiths and Paul Griffiths, of White Oak, spent Thursday in Frankfort visiting Somo and Chant Griffiths.

Mr. and Mrs. Manning have moved from the McGuire residence into an apartment with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Manker.

Mr. and Mrs. James Canfield and family, of Royalton, ate dinner recently with Mrs. Lou Cox and her daughters.

C. W. Mathis spent Thanksgiving at the Cole hotel. His wife returned with him and they moved from Benham to Grays Knob, their new location.

Miss Mae Elam, who is employed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Elam, spent Thanksgiving at White Oak with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Elam.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Williams of Oil Springs and John Williams and Ada McKenzie, of Whitesville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Hollie Williams and family, at West Liberty, Sunday.

W. G. Ratliff, Curtis Ratliff, and Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Ratliff visited their brother in a hospital at Charleston, Ill., on Thanksgiving day. He had been operated on for appendicitis, and is getting along nicely.

MEN WANTED for Raleigh Routes of 800 families in Jackson. Reliable hustler should start earning $25 weekly and increase rapidly. Write today. Rawl-444, Dept. KAL 2968, Freeport, Ill. (Adv.)

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Perry and little son, of Louisville, spent last week end here with relatives. Mr. Perry's mother, Mrs. Newt Perry, returned with them and remained over Thanksgiving. They visited her brother-in-law at Danville.

The relief office force has been cut down to the following members: Mrs. Bryant, stenographer and clerk; Miss Margaret M. Brown and Wardell Walter, home visitors. The position of relief worker is temporarily being filled by Mr. Walter.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Arnett entertained at their big turkey dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Elam, and Walter Henry. Mrs. Arnett had provided all the trimmings for the turkey and her culinary art displayed a beautiful table laden with savory food.

Members of the Women's Missionary society of the Baptist church are keeping the week of prayer for foreign missionaries and take up the regular Christmas offering for this work. They had their programs at the home of Mrs. Roscoe Brown Monday and Wednesday nights and will meet there again Friday afternoon. Last year this offering returned to the field all who were physically able and sent out 29 new missionaries.

The following persons attended the funeral of Miss Jean Blair at Morehead on Tuesday: Lockwood Elam, Sherman McKenzie, Misses Ethel Elam, Virginia Nickell, Lurline Reed, Lexie and Ella Ruth Childers, Marcie McKenzie, Martha Carolyn Blair, and Helen Stacy. The deceased was the 10 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Blair at Morehead. She was a number of relatives in West Liberty and visited here the past summer.

Miss Rula Mae Spencer had business in Lexington on Saturday.

Mrs. Ben Allen of White Oak spent yesterday with Mrs. Auty McElhin.

W. O. Blair and Johnnie McKenzie had business in Ashland on Saturday.

TO RENT An apartment of three rooms. Byron Carter, West Liberty.

A great man never feels great; a small man never feels small.—Chinese Proverb.

Miss Josephine McGuire was suddenly taken very ill Monday, but is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Story went to Augusta to spend Thanksgiving with their parents.

Commonwealth's Attorney H. C. Rose went to Grayson this morning to attend circuit court there.

Mrs. J. C. Arnett, Mrs. O. B. Arnett, and Mrs. H. B. Murray went to Lexington yesterday on business.

Miss Helen Cox visited over the week end at Stacy Fork with her friend, Miss Elizabeth Ratliff.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Murray and Hager Craft attended the football game at Lexington on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrie Elam of Morehead called on their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Blair, Sunday afternoon.

Asa Blair and family spent the week end with Mrs. Blair's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Davis, near Sandy Hook.

Misses Mary Elizabeth Cochran and Olive Fannin enjoyed their Thanksgiving in Louisville with Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Perry.

Miss Georgia Mae Caskey, Robert Caskey, and Joe D. Lykins came in from Morehead Friday evening for the week end.

William Allen Blair of Berea college was home for Thanksgiving. His father, J. L. Blair, took him back to school Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rose and son John spent Thanksgiving in Grayson with Mr. Rose's brother, John M. Rose, and family.

W. A. Caskey and R. F. Nickell made a business trip to Louisville after eating Thanksgiving dinner at home. They returned Friday.

Mrs. Crystal Howard was taken suddenly ill Tuesday and was carried to the Murray hospital. She was taken home yesterday and is improving.

On Wednesday evening Prebald Caskey surprised his parents, had a happy Thanksgiving with them, and returned to college Thursday afternoon.

Robert Cole and family, of Wilmore, spent Thanksgiving with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cole. His family remained and he returned for them Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Elam and daughter Ethel Marie had a pleasant Thanksgiving at Grayson with Mr. Elam's mother, Mrs. R. F. Elam, and his aunt, Mrs. W. A. Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Blair visited Friday Mrs. Blair's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Pritchard, at Sandy Hook. Mr. and Mrs. Blair also made a business trip to Ashland on Saturday.

Miss Nell Cole attended the big football game at Lexington on Thursday. The Lexington team had lost the game for several years, but this year brought victory against the Tennessee boys.

Dr. Story of Richmond, a federal government truckman specialist, with the assistance of Miss McIntyre, is holding a clinic today in the court house from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Mr. H. B. Murray, Mrs. J. C. Arnett, and Mrs. Clifford Blethen are assisting as clerks.

The Ruth Bros. Construction company truck and the Mr. Sterling Bottling company truck met in a head-on collision at Little Chney just after dark Friday. All occupants of the trucks were rushed to the Murray hospital. Hager Ray, teacher at Sebae, riding in the construction truck, had a temple artery cut and lost a great deal of blood. Dr. Murray took him home Monday and he is getting along nicely. A. J. Herald, driver of the truck, had a fractured knee cap. Mr. Downs, on the bottling truck, had a deep cut above the right eye, and Mr. Finkler had severe scalp wounds. Both trucks were completely wrecked.

Polonaise From Poland
The dance called the polonaise originated in Poland. It was a slow, graceful dance in three-quarter time.

Envelopes Were Unknown in Country Before 1847

Envelopes, so common today in an endless variety of sizes, shapes, and colors, were practically unknown in this country before 1847 and did not come into much use until about 1851, notes a writer in the Chicago Tribune. The usual letter before that time consisted of a folded sheet of writing paper which was folded and tucked to seal so that a waft of wind or way would seal it effectively.

Shortly after the introduction of the envelope, and perhaps as an aid to its sale, manufacturers and printers made up special covers for almost every use or occasion. Small envelopes with elaborate embossing appealed to the feminine tastes of that day.

Standard propaganda envelopes of the day could be had from every stationer. These generally dealt with prohibition, slavery, or cheaper postage rates. Campaign covers came into use in the elections of 1852 and 1856 and were on every hand during the campaigns of 1899 and 1904.

The anti-slavery envelopes of the abolitionists of the early 50s merged in 1850 into the flood of patriotic covers of the Civil war. Those used before the actual declaration of war were of course franked with United States stamps even when the sentiments expressed may have been decidedly against the Union.

Belva Lockwood Named as Presidential Candidate

Mrs. Belva Lockwood, lawyer and reformer, and many years ago nominated for the Presidency of the United States, was born in 1815 at Royalton, N. Y. She was educated at Geneva college, Lima, N. Y., and taught school for 11 years. Then she studied law and was admitted to the bar in the District of Columbia in 1853. Six years later she was admitted to practice before the Supreme court, under a law which she had been instrumental in getting passed.

Mrs. Lockwood lectured frequently, and campaigned for peace, woman's suffrage and temperance. In 1884 and 1888 she was nominated for the Presidency by the Equal Rights party, a suffrage organization, but her campaigns amounted chiefly to a suffrage propaganda, since she could not have held the office had she been elected.

Born Belva Ann Bennett, she was married in 1848 to Erlich H. McVail, who died five years later, and in 1858 to Dr. Ezekiel Lockwood. She died in 1917.

Big Bear, Big Eater

The Kodiaks, which are the world's largest carnivorous land animals, as well as the largest of bears, eat an amazing amount of food, according to a zoo authority. One Kodiak daily consumes a bushel basket of grass trimmings, including delicacies such as dandelion greens; eight pounds of bear bread, five pounds of assorted vegetables and fruits, two quarts of irradiated milk and cold liver oil, and two pounds of meat. It is only through his love for salmon that the Kodiak has been trapped in the past. In the spring they leave their shelter in woods and mountains and go to the river valleys. There they catch the salmon which are hurrying upstream after their sojourn in salt waters. In the manner salmon have of returning to the fresh waters in which they were hatched seven years before.

Balboa Once a Stowaway

Hailion, who discovered the Pacific ocean, was once just a common stowaway. To get to Darien, on the Isthmus of Panama, he left Santo Domingo by hiding away in an empty wine barrel. Discovered at sea, he was put to work and did it so willingly and so well that he was soon the most popular man aboard the ship. He was not long in Darien before he was chosen leader of the settlement. On a short expedition of exploration in 1513, he crossed the Isthmus and beheld the Pacific ocean, claiming all the lands that touched upon it for the king of Spain.

Famous Allegorical Group

The allegorical group in the grand central portico of the Capitol at Washington, was executed by Luigi Persico, a prominent Neapolitan sculptor, and represents the "Genius of America." America, armed, is resting her shield upon an altar, with an eagle perched at her feet. She seems to be listening to Hope, who holds the Constitution, inscribed September 17, 1787 (the date of its adoption) and her seneca.

Musical Names for Islands

Alor, Flores and Nins are the musical names of remote islands in the Dutch East Indies. Alor is as primitive as all the South seas were before the days of Captain Cook. Flores is interesting because of its remarkable crater lakes, colored red, green and blue, and held sacred by the natives. Nins is the strange "Island of gold" whose natives possess great stores of gold and fashion it into elaborate ornaments and jewelry.

Citizens Ride Free on R. R.

Laureburg, Germany, is the only city in the world whose entire population of 5,000 is allowed to travel free on its railroad, a branch line of the Berlin-Danburg railroad which runs to Bueben about 10 miles away. This privilege was granted in 1841, when the railroad then being built, failed in its purpose to earn its way through this town's rocky soil.

Silo-Filling Is Important Work

Care Necessary to Prevent Moldy or Filled Spots in Silage Later.

By F. J. C. Hopper, New York State College of Agriculture—WNU Service
Care at silo-filling this season is doubly or three times as important as in the winter when the silage will go down into the contents of the silo.

In very tall silos where much pressure develops, the silage often becomes perfectly without being distributed or tramped; but only when moisture conditions are correct. It is advisable to level off and tramp the surface in all silos.

How to fill and when to fill depends largely on the condition of the corn. Dry corn should probably be distributed, tramped, and perhaps watered. Corn that has plenty of water tends to rot or no attention.

Two general plans of filling silos are followed. In one, the double distribution pipe is moved about constantly by an operator who tramps and levels the silage at the same time. More men are sometimes put in to help him.

The other plan is to blow the corn into the top of the silo without anyone in the silo to tramp or level the corn. In this way the blower portions work toward the outside and the heavier portions accumulate in the center. This is likely to give an uneven grade of silage. If the corn is very ripe or dry and has more than 35 per cent of dry matter some may spoil along the sides. Corn with a good deal of water will pack closely and will be preserved by fermentation.

Red Fife Wheat Brought to Ontario From Europe

The progress of wheat northward, almost to the Arctic circle, has been described as beginning in 1841, when David Lyle, an Ontario farmer, asked a friend to send him some wheat from northern Europe. The friend sent a handful of grain from a ship just docking at Glasgow from Danzig, says a writer in the Washington Star. Lyle planted the seeds in his garden, but only five came up, two of which were eaten by a cow. From the three remaining plants came the so-called Red Fife wheat which proved so adapted to the climate of Canada and the northern United States that in the course of a half century it had spread over the greater part of the country.

This, in turn, was the foundation of the still more productive marquis wheat, which is credited with playing a major part in the allied victory in the World war. But with the extension of Canadian agriculture northward, came the development of still another wheat, the garnet, which ripens from 10 days to two weeks earlier than marquis and can be grown almost up to the Arctic circle. The problem is to get wheat from that far north as good quality as that grown farther south. One of the great wheat countries of the world is the Peace river district, north of Edmonton.

Lime Needs Time

On soil needing lime, alfalfa often fails if seeded before the lime has had time to correct the acidity. It is advisable to delay seeding until several months after the limestone has been disked into the surface soil. Some soils are slightly acid on the surface (one ton requirement), but have an abundance of lime in the soil underneath. Alfalfa grows well on such soils after the roots reach the subsoil. Seedlings made on such soils immediately after liming are often successful. Also, if such soils have been unimproved recently, seedlings grow more vigorously and may reach the calcareous subsoil.—Wallace's Farmer.

Indians as Corn Growers

The American Indians learned through trial and error how to grow corn under adverse weather conditions. In cold regions they added several days to the short growing season by sprouting the seed before planting. Records indicate that the ability of Indians to grow corn 100 years ago in semi-arid regions of the upper Missouri valley, in an area now considered unfavorable to corn production, was unsurpassed by any other tribe in America.

Storing Chopped Hay

Chopped hay occupies about one-half to one-third the space needed for long hay. For this reason, advises a writer in Prairie Farmer, care must be taken to increase supports of many mows before chopped hay is stored since the weight of a mowful of chopped hay is considerably greater than the usual capacity weight of long hay. Since chopped hay has a tendency to heat more than long hay, it should be properly cured before it is stored.

Potatoes as Feed

Raw potatoes, even when clean and sound, are slightly bitter and are also somewhat laxative. Large allowances of potatoes, therefore, are likely to result in bloat and scouring, says the Montreal Herald. This difficulty is largely overcome by cooking the potatoes, especially for hog feeding. Such treatment also does not harm their nutritive value and it makes them palatable and digestible.

Sequoias Old Relics
The sequoias are relics of past ages. Long before the towering forests of California were discovered geologists had become well acquainted with these trees through their study of fossils found in various countries. Before the glacial period sequoias were common not only in many parts of North America, but also in Europe.

League Postpones the Oil Embargo

NOVEMBER 23 had been set as the date for a meeting of the League of Nations sanctions committee to consider the imposition of an oil embargo against Italy, but Premier Laval and British Ambassador George Russell Clark, after a conference in Paris, recommended that the session be indefinitely postponed, and this action was taken. The statement stated that the sanctions would seriously aggravate the political situation, and Laval thought if he were given more time he might bring about the conciliation of the Italian-Greek quarrel.

There were good reasons for the postponement of the French and British governments. Benito Mussolini had bluntly told the world that the imposition of an oil embargo would mean war in Europe, the warning being given through his ambassador to France, Vittorio Cerruti. Furthermore, there was doubt in London and Paris concerning the ability of the United States government to prevent the shipment of oil to Italian ports. In Washington it was reported that Ambassador Augusto Rocco had discussed the matter with Secretary of State Hull, suggesting that attempts to block oil exports of oil, cotton, cotton and other commercial articles did not constitute "effective" neutrality.

Empire Heide Solasie made two airplane flights to the fighting fronts in Ethiopia and showed up his forces so that their resistance to the invasion was measurably stiffened, especially in the South. The government at Addis Ababa announced that its armies had driven the Italian troops back from Goralah, recapturing the town of Gabredere. In the North the advance of the Italians beyond Makale was very slight because of attacks on the supply columns and patrols, and Italian casualties were increasing, though the Ethiopian losses probably were much larger. The invaders are flooding out what they were told from the beginning that most of the occupied territory is untenable militarily.

Communists Stir Revolt in Northern Brazil

BRAZIL was experiencing another revolt in the northern part of the country. Latest news said the rebels had control of the city of Natal and that a hot fight was on for possession of Pernambuco. The uprising was led by the Communists and was believed to be led by Luis Carlos Prestes, Communist leader for all of South America. It was said he planned to spread the movement all over Brazil, Argentina, Paraguay and Chile.

Under command of Gen. Manuel Ribeiro, the federal troops, army and navy airplanes and two cruisers were hurriedly sent northward to combat the rebellion.

American Delegation for Naval Conference

ELEVEN American diplomats and naval officers, selected by Secretary of State Hull, have sailed to represent this country in the coming naval conference in London. At their head is Norman H. Davis, the President's ambassador-at-large for Europe, who participated in the preliminary conversations last year. Acting with him will be Undersecretary of State William Phillips and Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations. Advisers to the delegation will be Itho Atherton, counselor of the American embassy in London, and E. H. Dorman of the State department, who knows all about Japanese and other Far Eastern affairs.

Niel H. Tidd of the division of western European affairs, who attended the last naval conversations, and Samuel Heber, secretary of the American legation in Bern, Switzerland, will act as technical assistants.

The navy's four technical experts will be Chief Naval Engineer, Commander Roscoe E. Schaffman, Lieut. Arthur D. A. Smith, and Lieut. J. H. Fulton.

David M. Key, assistant chief of the division of current information, will act as press officer for the delegation. In his company will be foreign newspaper men, and Mr. Allen Hudson will serve as the delegation's secretary.

When the conversations in London have gone far enough to indicate what the several nations may be expected to do, President Roosevelt will direct the course to be followed by Mr. Tidd and his colleagues. It is taken for granted they will strive to bring about an agreement for the limiting of future naval construction.

Federal Reserve Bulletin Notes Business Recovery

GOVERNORS of the federal reserve banks, in the bulletin of the reserve board, have sounded a most cheerful note concerning business conditions. Summing up facts gathered all over the country, they concluded that the United States was undergoing the most substantial economic recovery since the depression began, with every sign pointing to its continuance.

Business activity has been sustained for two months near the high level it reached at the first of the year, the bulletin said. In contrast to the course of business in the three preceding years when advances were not sustained but were quickly followed by declines.

There are some of the elements the bulletin says are contributing to this most desirable state of affairs:

Industrial activity during the first ten months of this year has been at a higher level than in any of the four preceding years, with the chief acceleration in industries producing durable goods.

Residential building has shown a "marked and sustained" increase for the first time since the decline, which in this industry began in 1928.

The greater industrial activity has been accompanied by increased incomes to both industrial workers and farmers, and greater distribution of commodities to consumers.

Continued ease in the money market and accumulation of a vast amount of idle money have been reflected in a revival of the capital market, resulting in security flotations in larger volume than at any time since 1929.

Profits of large corporations have increased, accompanied by a "sustained" advance in security prices, representing primarily the effect of cash buying by investors.

China Clipper Carries Air Mail to Orient

PAN AMERICAN Airways opened a new chapter in the story of aviation when its huge China Clipper carried the first consignment of air mail from Alameda, Calif., to Manila, with stops at Honolulu, Midway Islands, Wake Island, and Guam. Capt. Edwin C. Musick, chief pilot of the company, was in command of the craft and was aided by a crew of six men. Fourteen passengers started on the flight and twelve were dropped off to relieve the mails at Midway and Wake. The 1,700 miles between Guam and Manila had not been done heretofore.

After one or two more flights to Manila the clipper will continue to China and operate on through scheduled thereafter.

The Philippine Clipper, second of Pan-American Airways' trans-Pacific air fleet, arrived at Alameda from the Atlantic coast and her crew began preparations for a flight to Manila beginning December 6. The plane flew 500 miles from San Diego in three hours 50 minutes. Previously she had flown from Miami, Fla., to Acapulco, Mexico, 1,520 miles, and Acapulco to San Diego, 1,300 miles.

Split in the American Federation of Labor

FORT A long time it has been apparent that there would be a split in the American Federation of Labor over the issue of industrial unionism versus craft unionism. That split now has occurred, and in the ranks of organized labor there is coming a great battle between the two elements. The matter was precipitated by the resignation of John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers of America, as vice president of the federation. He is the chief protagonist for unit industrialization of mass production industries, and his opponents, the craft union advocates, are led by William Green, president of the organization. The latter have had a majority in the late conventions of the federation, but Lewis has a lot of followers and is a determined fighter. He has set up separate headquarters in Washington and seven international union leaders joined him immediately. It was reported that the "rebels" had a war fund of $100,000. Four-fifths of this came from a special assessment of $1 each on the 4,000,000 United Mine Workers this fall.

President Green sent a stern rebuke to Lewis and those associated with him.

It is not believed that the industrial unionists will secede from the federation, but will wage a bitter fight for supremacy within that organization.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Our Scotch Neighbor

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—When I first knew him, he was plain John Buchan, writing the best Scotch novels since Robert Louis Stevenson. Then, in 1918, he was Colonel John Buchan of the British wartime press bureau, shrewd, kindly, and deft, handling a bunch of ranting American correspondents as gently as though they were so many new-laid eggs and he, personally, had laid every last one of them. When he became Sir John Buchan, a lot of us said: "Well, he earned his honors but no title ever can swell that Scotch head." Now, at Ottawa, the flags fly and the cannon roar for Baron Tweedsmuir, governor general of our noble neighbor nation to the north, but, if his lordship doesn't mind, I'd like, personally, to go on thinking of him as my friend, John Buchan, a very great gentleman.

They'll like him up there, we're going to like him down here. And, if any of you Canadians has any doubt as to his diversified talents, wait till you see him casting a trout fly across a likely pool.

They'll like him up there, we're going to like him down here. And, if any of you Canadians has any doubt as to his diversified talents, wait till you see him casting a trout fly across a likely pool.

Casualties in the News

EVEN as between the New York gang war and the Ethiopian war, the New York dispatches make spicier reading. They print the names and addresses of the deceased.

Borah's hat is in the ring. It may be dislodged from some of the other hats in the ring by the fact that he is not a size six and five-eighths.

So there's to be another new "empire" hatched in the Orient, with China furnishing the eggs and Japan the incubator. This certainly is a great year for weaker nations to wake up of a morning under a strange flag.

At Panama, a deadly serpent bit an army lieutenant. He took serum and went to a party, and the snake died in 20 minutes. Whereas, heretofore, lieutenants have been regarded as comparatively harmless.

Fashions for Men

TRUCK to recent promise, we now offer our winter fashion hints for American men:

Loose effects will be in evidence on park benches.

The morning suit will be used throughout the day. Also every morning.

Unless prosperity returns midly soon, expect a continuance of the high polish noted during recent years in connection with the seats of blue serge pants. Elbows also will display a bright sheen or patina.

Trousers may or may not be turned up at the bottoms. It depends on whether wearers are sensitive about fringes or just naturally don't give a darn.

There will be very little change—in many cases, no change whatsoever—in the pockets of business suits.

However, the careful dresser will ask the tailor to install a special receptacle for carrying tax notices in a favored perfume will be attar of moth balls.

The Family Influence

SIX members of the Virginia-born Lady Astor's family are now in the British parliament, if you include Lady Astor herself—and you'd better. So hereafter her ladyship can rest the voice occasionally and there'd still be an Astor to carry on.

She's not like some equally determined conversationalists, though. When she speaks, she has something to say—and says it.

On the other hand, only three members of the Lloyd-George household won seats at the recent English election.

Maybe it's a good thing to elect a whole family group, by the crate-load, as it were. It saves having to remember a lot of different names.

Now you take our congress, wherein always there are so many names that don't mean a thing on earth except for roll call and salary purposes. Often, toward the end of a congress, the Congressional Record is merely a symposium of the last words of the unhurled dead.

Being an Actor

A MAN spends half a lifetime trying to learn to write, and, if he succeeds, he's lucky; and if he doesn't, he's like a fellow whose wife is being talked about—probably the last man in town to hear the bad news.

But, overnight, you can get to be an actor—at least you can get the actor's viewpoint. For instance, I've just finished a very bitter argument at the studio over the next picture we're going to shoot. There's a director who insists on cluttering up the show with a lot of other people. He's also very tiresome about dragging in a plot.

I still feel I have the right idea about a proper vehicle for the display of one's theatrical talents.

It's a two-hour monologue, interrupted only by tumultuous applause.

IRVIN S. COBB, North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.—WNU Service.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field

Washington.—There is more desire on the part of President and Secretary of State Hull to co-operate with the League of Nations in the sanctions against Italy than has appeared on the surface. Both regret exceedingly that the neutrality law passed by congress did not go further. They wish that the word "munitions" had been used instead of "arms, ammunition and implements of war," which phrase is so narrow in its strict definition that it could not possibly be stretched to include oil, or copper, for example, without subjecting the administration to another upset in the courts.

But despite this lack of legal authority, the government has been bearing down hard on exporters and would-be exporters of war materials. One of the latest incidents is that the shipping board bureau of the Department of Commerce—survivor of the old shipping board—warned a certain concern about to ship a cargo of oil to Italy that the proposed shipment was "disapproved."

The excuse here was that the ship and cargo would have to run the gauntlet of the League sanctions, and the government had an investment. It so happened that the ship the would-be exporter desired to use had been subsidized.

As a matter of fact, the only risk involved is that in the time elapsing after the sailing and before the ship reached her Italian destination an actual blockade of Italy might be declared. For up to now there has been no more than a hint of actual blockade. No ships have been stopped by British or French warships in the Mediterranean. No threat has been made that any will be.

Nevertheless, insurance on ships traversing the sea that Mussolini claims the British now dominate, but that the Italians ought to, has jumped tremendously. For example, an American importing firm, which brings cargoes of rice and dates from Persian gulf ports, has been seriously considering sending this freight overland to Atlantic ports, or else around the Cape of Good Hope.

Change World Cruises

Further, most world-cruise ships for the last month or more have been advertising visits to South Africa, and have been eliminating the Mediterranean entirely, although normally most world tourists want particularly to visit Italy and Greece and the Holy Land.

So that the government, in this raise of insurance rates, which is interpreted naturally enough as a danger signal, is perfectly within its right in seeking to restrain shipments. Yet everybody knows that this is not the real reason at all, but merely an excuse. For the government could be just as much protected in its investment—through subsidy—in ships making the journey through the "war zone" as it is from any other maritime danger.

Questioned about the situation, officials of the shipping bureau replied bluntly that the bureau "must conform to administration policy." That is the real answer, although the interesting fact is that the policy has never been stated. It has merely been hinted.

The first hint came when the State department, with no hint of publicity, sought to restrain the Standard Oil from shipping oil to its Italian subsidiary. The company made the thing public by giving out its answer. Standard's real point is also concealed. It would be perfectly willing to stop shipping oil to Italy if it were protected by public action on the part of this government against its Italian subsidiary.

Keen observers here figure the government will do something to restrain copper shipments also, perhaps using the same tactics.

Copying Wilson

President Roosevelt is taking a leaf from the book of Woodrow Wilson in talking over the shoulders of the diplomats to the peoples of the world. The President and his advisers know perfectly well that there is going to be no curtailment of armaments at the disarmament conference to be held in London. It has been a long time since there was the slightest hope of it.

Hence the administration's objective has been switched to the future, and from the world's rulers to the world's peoples.

While there is considerable pessimism about this accomplishing anything, no one is particularly disposed to criticize it publicly. Army and navy officers have some bitter words about it in private. They agree with the general feeling that no one now living will be here when the fruit is borne, if ever. But they add that this propaganda will also reach the taxpayers, and through them the congress of the United States.

Hence, they fear, the net result may be to make no change whatever in the armament spending of any other nation, but to tend very directly to slow down such spending by the United States.

In particular, they point out that the one nation which has given less heed to world opinion than any other, for some years, has been Japan. Naval officers, especially, have always believed, and still believe, that war between the United States and Japan is inevitable.

It is commonly known that the Japanese are oppressed by very heavy taxes to carry their armament load. But there is not the slightest indication that the Japanese people intend to rise in their might and demand that their government curtail its military expenditures. On the contrary, all indications are that the Japanese people approve Nippon's militaristic course, believe it to be essential to their future, and are thereby willing to make any sacrifice for their country.

Military Rule in Japan

Even those most optimistic about America's contention that armament cost should not be increased by any nation concede this. What they hope for is a change of sentiment, perhaps a year from now, perhaps later on.

The answer of the army and navy to this is that if the opinions of the Japanese did change, it would not make any difference. It has been demonstrated too often, they insist, that the Japanese people believe what they are told, and are absolutely under the thumb of the military oligarchy.

In this respect, in the American military view, they differ sharply from Europe—Germany and Italy. For the present there is no one to oppose the will of Hitler in Germany or Mussolini in Italy. But no one knows what will be the situation in either country ten years from now. Or even one year from now.

Italy and Germany are each dominated for the time being by one strong man. And no one can venture a prophecy as to what would happen after that strong man passes from the stage.

There is nothing comparable to that in Japan. In Nippon it is a group of high army and navy officers who dominate. The death of any ten of them makes no material difference in the general objective. The policy has been adhered to for many years. It is to dominate China, and make Japan a world power. Ever since the Russo-Japanese war it has been one forward step after another, with an occasional sidestep such as the abandonment of Shantung after the Washington armament conference.

The navy does not even feel that the freedom of the Philippines lessens the danger of war between the United States and Japan.

Canadian Treaty

Down underneath all the clamor against the Canadian reciprocity treaty, expert detectors of popular sentiment here believe the country will approve it. Further, they believe that if the treaty is approved in Ottawa—which incidentally seems by no means certain despite the majority by which Maclean King so recently came back into power—the net effect will be a trusteeship asset at the polls.

Should Ottawa reject the treaty, on the other hand, feeling here is that the net effect will be injurious to the administration in the election next year. This is based on a fundamental political fact—human nature. Many business men, economists and experts in international trade have figured that if the reciprocity treaty negotiated with Canada in the Taft administration had gone into effect, the net effect would have been beneficial. But no politician who was active at the time doubts that it was a serious handicap to Mr. Taft when he faced re-election.

Had the treaty gone into effect, it is reasoned, and had the opposition to Mr. Taft promised the country to abrogate the treaty, then every one who was directly benefitting under the treaty would have been driven to Taft's defense, to protect their selfish interests.

But there was no possibility, as it appeared when Taft was running for re-election, that the treaty could be revived. Hence there was no selfish element to be driven to Taft's aid, while all and sundry who thought they would have been hurt by the treaty were still resentful at what they thought Taft had tried to do to them, and were easily inflamed against him. This was especially effective in the Northwest.

Lumber Interests Howl

This time the loudest outcries are coming from the Pacific Northwest, where the lumber interests think they would be badly hurt by the treaty. Applying the 1912 chapter to the present situation, if the treaty is rejected the northwestern lumber interests will influence a heavy vote against Roosevelt next year for what he tried to do to them. It is not a question of big special interests affecting the electorate. No one ever accused former Senator Clarence C. Dill of Washington, representing the big interests. He worked for a high lumber tariff because it would benefit his state, and he figured the folks out there would appreciate it. So much has been said by Dill and others that a very considerable segment of the Washington voters are convinced that Roosevelt simply is not the type to understand their problems.

On the other hand, if the treaty is ratified by Canada, although the feeling in Washington and Oregon on lumber, and perhaps in upstate New York and Wisconsin on that million and a half gallons of cream which may be brought in at reduced duties, will be no different, there will be offsets. For example, the orange growers of California, to say nothing of the producers of other fruits, will want to know if the opposing candidate proposes to abrogate the treaty—to take away the advantage they will be enjoying under it.

Quick, Safe Relief For Eyes Irritated By Exposure To Sun, Wind and Dust —

MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

And Should Help We do not expect people to make the world heavenly, but endurable.

GAS, GAS ALL THE TIME, CAN'T EAT OR SLEEP

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart hurt. A friend suggested Adierka. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as well, sleep like a baby and feel better." — Mrs. J. S. Miller.

Adierka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowels only. Adierka gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shoup, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierka greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."

Give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierka and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments.

To Your Gain

If you are not of an exacting nature, you will be at home anywhere.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take Creomulsion with anything less than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged. Your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

Bedtime Story for Children

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

THE HUNTER LOSES HIS TEMPER

THE hunter, hidden near the pond of Paddy the Beaver, chuckled silently. That is to say, he laughed without making any sound. He had watched Mr. and Mrs. Quack feeding along the edge of the pond down towards Paddy's dam, behind the end of which Reddy Fox had been hidden. Reddy had been waiting for those Ducks just as the hunter himself was waiting for Lightfoot the Deer. Then along came Sammy Jay and spied Reddy Fox. At once he told began to screech at the top of his lungs. "Thief! Thief! Thief!" Mr. and Mrs. Quack had understood him perfectly. They swam out to the middle of the pond while Reddy Fox, knowing that it was useless to stay longer with Sammy Jay about, had started angrily and then taken himself off through the Green Forest.

The hunter thought it a great joke on Reddy. To tell the truth, he was very much pleased. He wanted those Ducks himself. He suspected that they would stay in that little pond for some days, and he planned to return there and shoot them after he had got Lightfoot first, and he knew that to shoot at anything else might spoil his chance of getting a shot at Lightfoot. "Sammy Jay did me a good turn," thought the hunter, "although he doesn't know it. Reddy Fox certainly would have caught one of those Ducks had Sammy not come along just when he did. It would have been a shame to have one of them caught by that fox. I mean to get one and, I hope, both of them myself."

Now when you come to think of it, it would have been a far greater shame for the hunter to have killed Mr. and Mrs. Quack than for Reddy Fox to have done so. Reddy was hunting them because he was hungry. The hunter would have shot them for sport. He didn't need them. He had plenty of other food. Reddy Fox never kills just for the pleasure of killing.

So the hunter continued to sit in his hiding place with very friendly feelings for Sammy Jay. Sammy watched Reddy Fox disappear and then flew over to that side of the pond where the hunter was. Mr. and Mrs. Quack called their thanks to Sammy, to which he replied that he had done no more for them than he would do for anybody, or than they would have done for him.

For some time Sammy sat quietly in the top of the tree, but all the time his sharp eyes were very busy. By and by, he spied the hunter sitting on the log. At first he couldn't make out just what it was he was looking at. It didn't move, nevertheless Sammy was suspicious. Presently, he flew over to a tree where he could see better. Right away he spied the terrible gun and he knew just what it was.

Once more he began to yell. "Thief!

Thief! Thief!" at the top of his lungs. It was then that the hunter lost his temper. He knew that, now he had been discovered by Sammy Jay, it was useless to remain there. He was angry clear through. He no longer had a friendly feeling for Sammy Jay.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

ARTISTRY IN COOKERY

THE cook who really enjoys mixing ingredients as a painter does his colors will find no limit to the delightful dishes which one may originate or enlarge upon with the materials at hand. One must follow a few fundamental principles in cookery, and after that let the imagination snarl, for there is no end to inspiration.

After some experience with handling foods, most toothsome dishes may be prepared from bits of leftovers. The cook who wastes nothing, but serves her food in a dainty, appetizing manner, is a real genius and her talents are ever in demand.

It is not always wise to tell all one knows as to the contents of a dish, for some conscientious objectors will refuse to try a made-over dish, or rearranged food.

Now, who will dare to call a steamed pudding a leftover? Yet one may prepare a most tasty one with a few squares of corn bread, a cupful of leftover cocoa, a bit of oatmeal, a few raisins and a couple of egg yolks left from some icing or dessert.

Use the things you have at hand—anyone who knows little about foods can prepare a good meal if the market can be called upon with no regard to expense.

Do you use the half cupful, more or less, of leftover ice cream in a cake or pudding?

Leftover custard may be used the next day for a pudding sauce.

Accident is often the mother of new things, as the discovery of one woman when making a sponge cake that it was more fetching when the egg yolks were added unwhipped and stirred in to make the cake streaked gold and white in appearance.

TRY THIS TRICK

MYSTERIOUS CRAYONS

SEVERAL crayons are utilized in this trick. Each crayon is of a different color. The magician distributes the crayons and turns his back. He asks that one crayon be placed in his hand, the others hidden.

This is done. The magician's hands are behind his back; when he faces the spectators, he keeps his hands so he cannot see them. Again turning his back toward the people, he lets them take back the crayon which he is holding. It is hidden with the rest. Although the wizard has gained no opportunity to glimpse the crayon, he promptly raises his fingertips to his forehead and in a mysterious tone announces the color of the crayon that was used.

The secret is as simple as it is clever. While he turns about, holding the crayon behind him, the magician marks one thumb nail. After the spectators regain the crayon, he raises his hand to his forehead. That action lets him see the color of the mark on the nail.

"LET me take the grain, Mother, my boy sits by the fire; I will feed the chickens, and I will milk the cow. I want to get so tired, Mother, and yet I never tire; And nights I am so sleepy, yet cannot sleep somehow."

"I will do the chores, daughter; you go walk awhile; Trip across the meadows as you used to do; Surely there are roses there to make you smile; That will bring the roses back again to you."

"No, not there, not there, Mother!—here I must abide; Withdrew the roses, leaving but the stone; Fields that you have walked, Mother, someone at your side; Now you cannot walk Mother, walk again alone."

"Yonder in the town, Daughter, on the village green; Men and maids are dancing, men and maids are gay; Hurry to the village—you are yet the queen; Take your share of pleasure, pleasure while you may."

"No, I cannot go, Mother, there I cannot go; For they all remember when we both were there; They would give me pity, pity me, I know—That's the hardest burden sorrow has to bear."

"Listen, foolish daughter; him you must forget—Better lost the lover that a maid can lose; Hope is all before us, all behind regret—Life is joy or sorrow always as we choose."

"Life is joy or sorrow? Mother dear, my joy After all was sorrow, though I didn't know; Now, to give me pleasure, sorrow I employ—I can't keep from laughing—it's so funny—so—"

"Quick! Some wine! The doctor! Now she sleeps at last. Is she only sleeping? Will she ever wake?"

"Has he even killed her? Well, the past is past. He shall be forgiven, for her great love's sake."

Glamour, Romance in Evening Dress

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IF THE revival of the luxurious, the more elegant, the romantic, the dramatic, the glamorous in fashion indicates a turning of the tide as they say it does, from a season of depression to an era of prosperity and good times, then indeed have we cause to rejoice for the present signs to the matter of opulent dress are most propitious.

The new fashions, especially formal modes, are not only glamorous and elegant beyond anything known for years but they add to their fascination in that they seem to have recaptured the glories, the poetry, the vision and the imagination, the art, as expressed in lovely apparel created throughout the ages.

At a recent style showing given by the Chicago wholesale market council the gowns for formal wear, three of which are herewith illustrated, confirmed the feeling that we are entering a fashion era wherein a new spirit of elegance pervades.

Eloquent of classic beauty and statuesque dignity which carries the grace of sculptural lines are the new evening gowns of Grecian inspiration. Extreme interpretations of moles in drapery are seen in the draped themes of Vivian and other Paris designers. Long flowing scarfs, huge wing sleeves, draped side pleatings are all shown in the new soft quality kind silk crepes and velvets. Other gowns show skirt-plaited all around of floating billows masses of chiffon, or silk dresses with draperies (often pleated) in long cascades from the shoulder, to form a short train at the side or back.

Sumptuous fabrics, for which the present season is noted, bespeak the rich beauty of Italian influence, especially the magnificent velvets in warm deep purples and reds and greens, such as have lived through the centuries in old master paintings and frescoes.

The versatility of the present mode would make it appear as if Oriental princesses had come to life. In the new harem drapes and metal cloth turbans and sari scarfs and head coverings, Chinese colorfulness and patterning, Chinese embroidery carry the spirit of the Far East into the immediate fashion program. Then there is the Russian influence which has an all-important influence on current style trends as manifest in the smart high cosack turbans and fur bordered tunic blouses and coats and suits.

Of course we must not neglect to make mention of the picturesque robe de style gowns which have and are bringing so much of romance into the modern fashion picture. In these you may be as bouffant and rococo as were lovely ladies in the king's court in olden days of pomp and glory when George the Fourth was king.

Speaking of the bouffant we are minded to call your attention to the charming dress centered in the illustration. It demonstrated at first glance to the audience gathered at the style revue held in Chicago, the fact of high quality emphasized in a superb half-feta glinting with metallic highlights. To the right, in the picture, is a very lovely evening ensemble fashioned of one of the new rapturous, scintillating silver hime-weaves such as are so smartly in vogue this season. Its styling accents a to-be-envied slenderized figure. From skirt fullness, high-front, halter-neck bodice, extreme low-back décolletage, jeweled belt buckle are all highlights of note. To the left a gown of pearl dot satin bespeaks Grecian inspiration via heavy golden cords and tassels.

AT FOOTBALL GAME

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

For the football game, school, shopping or any daytime wear the above outfit is always correct. The coat is French lapin over a Scotch plaid dress in brown and red. The accessories are in brown to match the coat which may be worn with a suit on cold days. The awaggar coat with its youthful lines is one of the tailored woman's highlights this season. Its smart simplicity of line distinguishes her wherever she goes, with no fussiness, but pleasing femininity.

FABRIC KNOWLEDGE AIDS WISE BUYING

Fabric knowledge is part of your fashion education. The smart woman knows that. It isn't the initial cost of a dress, it's the upkeep that counts. When you are confident that your fabrics will hold theiruster; that your satins will retain their levelness and never get seamy or sloppy; when you know that your shivers will hold their shape and that your crepes won't ultimately sag under an avalanche of bending or bruise, that your cloaks will stay in, and that your drapes will not sag—then, and only then, are you well dressed.

Women are rapidly learning to find out all these things before they buy a dress. They are learning to buy predictable merchandise.

U. S. Designers Following

Glittering Fabric Trend

The French started it, but American designers were quick to follow the new trend of glittering fabrics for afternoon and evening wear. A survey just made of American textiles discloses that every important manufacturer in New York has designed and pre-ordered materials to achieve unusual brilliant effects. Cabled reports on the first fall openings of the Paris dressmakers still further indicate the advent of sparkling fabrics.

Tailor-Made Influence Is

Shown in Evening Gowns

Paradoxical as it may appear, the tailor-made influence has extended to dinner gowns this year. Worth launches wool-back silk velvet in dinner tailors with wrap-around skirts and blouse bodices, and Estou and Schiaparelli also favor evening tailors in silk velvet.

Do YOU Know—

That geese—so it is claimed—have flown higher than any other bird? They have been seen flying over the Himalayan mountains, at a height of 35,000 feet, or approximately six and one-half miles.

INSKO

Dec. 2—James Prater died at his home near here Friday night, Nov. 29.
He had been in poor health for some time but was not thought to be in a serious condition until just a few hours before his death. He was a kind father, a good neighbor, and a friend to all. He will be greatly missed in his family and the people of this community. He leaves his widow, five sons, six daughters, and a number of grandchildren to mourn his loss.
Funeral services were conducted at the home by Revs. W. M. Gifford and J. R. Handy. A short talk and prayer was held at the grave by Rev. James Dykes. The body was laid to rest in

HOLLIDAY

Dec. 2—In the past few weeks the work has left at the home of Sherman Blevins a girl, Ruth; at the home of Frank Gullett a girl; and at the home of Millard Doney a boy, Harold Gene.
All are doing fine.
Mrs. Josie Doney had as her dinner guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stamper, while her husband, Jim Doney, was visiting his sister, Mrs. Molly Stacy, of Stacy Fork.
The following teachers attend Saturday classes at Winchester, and now go each Saturday with the Carter taxi of West Liberty: Floyd Lykins, Harrison Holliday, Grant Hammond, Anderson Lany, and Frank Hammond.
They report a nice trip each time and like their instructor just fine.
The following persons traded furnishes in this locality last week: Asa Stamper, who lived near Tom Whit-tied with Frank Gullett, who lived near C. B. Lykins. We hope that all concerned are well pleased with the trade.
Jim Prater, an aged citizen near Canfield City, died last week of dropsy.
He leaves many friends to mourn his loss.
Will Adams of Stacy Fork, father of Jim Adams of this place, died Thursday morning. He had been ill several months. He leaves three brothers, John F. and Clayton Adams, of Caney, and Amos of Stacy Fork, and many sons and daughters to mourn his loss.
As the year season is near again
we should remember that the best way to be happy is to make others happy.
So remember your loved ones with gifts, and a good gift, one that will last thru the whole year and remind your friend of you every week, is a year's subscription to the Courier.
John Lane Sprague, who is attending Lee's college at Jackson, spent the week end with his parents at Harper.
Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Benton of Harper were guests Saturday night of Mrs. Maud Baldwin of this place.

Patrick Bleser, here, on Thanksgiving.
Miss Marie Wilson, who is employed at the home of Ray Haney, visits her parents at Wrigley over the week end.
Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Lykins were called to the bedside of their son, Kevin, in Illinois, who had been operated on for appendicitis.
Michael Trusty was calling on friends at Lickfork on Sunday.
Mr. and Mrs. Dave Haney and son
Ed visited their daughter, Mrs. A. J.
Powell, and family, at Winchester, last week.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Deharte are moving to Golders Knob. We are sorry to lose our neighbors but hoping they will be satisfied in their new home.

HOB JONES' COMMENTS

Back back the fallen man, I do not care which way he goes, a ruin, I who do not I can help him, I never saw an old man in the ditch but what I wanted to go down in the ditch and get him out. I hate sin, but I love sinners. There is no sin any man has committed that every other man could not have committed under certain circumstances. If it were not for the restraining power of the grace of God
"If this hungry hunger, feed him.
If he thirst give him drink." That is a high third-hand standard. After all, that is the best thing we can do for an enemy. Nothing will conquer our enemies so quickly as to return good for our enemies. It is awfully hard for a man to be mean to his fellow man when his fellow man is constantly kind to him. We are not to be good to our enemies simply because we want to win them to us for selfish reasons. That is like being honest because honesty is the best policy. The man who is honest simply because it pays to be honest is not merely honest but selfish, and selfishness is sin.
We are not gentlemen and ladies because we live in palaces and enjoy the luxuries of life. Some of the most refined people I have ever been my privilege to know lived in cabins.
Someone has said, "If a man is a Christian, he will always be a gentleman." The reason is a Christian is humbly refined. Love is at the base of all genuine courtesy. Selfishness cannot produce genuine hospitality nor can it be genuinely courteous.
The things that we do for people because we want them to do something for us in return have in them the sound of brass. Love gives, even tho it knows it will receive nothing in return for its gift. If we were unselfish, if we sincerely loved, we would all be kind and courteous and gently friendly. We might not know how to hold our knives and forks at

Notice of Sale of Real Estate and of Application to Court for Confirmation Notice is hereby given that, under authority of order of this Court made and entered January 6th, 1931, I have proposed to sell to Morgan County Board of Education, West Liberty, Ky., for school purposes, the following real estate of Ohio & Kentucky Railway Company, located at Canfield City, Morgan county, Kentucky, on the waters of Caney creek, to wit:
"A plot of land containing approximately three acres lying directly North of Depot, Garage, and Bank buildings and substantially between the right-of-way of the present state highway and the old county road, running North to an 'overhead' pipe line, said tract to embrace all of the land of the Railway Company lying between the right-of-way of the state highway and a line running a Northerly direction from a point directly East of the South end of 'Supply House,' approximately ten feet from East end of parallel to center line of 'Brusky Mill-Truck' to a point directly under said
'overhead' pipe line. For more particular description of said land see petition herein for confirmation of sale."
AND that I have petitioned said Court for a hearing on the matter of approval and confirmation of said sale to be held in the Judge's Chambers at Lexington, Ky., at 10:00 o'clock

Children's Colds Should Have This Safe Treatment

Young Mothers Benefit from Two Generations' Proof of This External Treatment For Fighting Colds.

IT AVOIDS CONSTANT "DOSING"

There's nothing like a child's cold to upset a young mother. And mothers of two generations, anxious to help end colds, have depended on Vicks VapoRub. It is effective—external—and safe. It avoids the risks of constant "dosing," so often upsetting to children's delicate directions. Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, VapoRub acts two ways at once:
1. By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster—
2. By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, released by heat and breathed in direct to inflamed air-passages.
Contrasting through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion.
A Practical Guide for Mothers
Each year, more and more families are being helped to fewer colds and shorter colds by Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Vicks Plan has been clinically tested by practicing physicians, and further proved in everyday home use by millions. Full details of the Plan in each package of Vicks VapoRub.
